ANNOUNCEMENTS

An artistic calendar for 1911, decorated with "About Town" beautiful picture, "Breaking the News," is being sent out by Alanson J. Filson of Norwich, agent for the Pawtucket Mutual Fire Insurance company.

A Programme of Hits at the Auditorium.

As the management of Norwich pioneer vaudeville house predicted last week, the show now running is a huge success. Although the acts all run on vocal lines, they are so arranged that there is no conflict at all. One of the season's hits is the Tremont Quartet, "That Comedy Act," who have done as nice a bunch of harmony as we have had the pleasure of listening to for a long time. Each member of this act is a corking good singer, the songs and music being deserving special recognition, while their ensemble work is perfect. One of the most pleasing acts seen at this popular house for a long time.

A highly pleasing offering of the most refined nature is presented by Margaret and Edith Braun, two clever young ladies, whose attractive appearance and pleasing personality wins for them much applause. Boyle and Evans have a neat act involving some funny and original comedy, and the different characterizations are all both natural and humorous.

A clever young man is Joe Daniels, the mimic and impersonator, his vocal imitations of some of the leading vaudeville entertainers being very lifelike, Harry Lander being especially good. The Photoplays were all hits, including such masterpieces as "The Ranch Riders," a Bison thriller of the west, "The King of the Ring," a production in that firm's inimitable style, and one of the "Famous Footshead Funny films," that is a riot of laughter.

THE POLI PLAYERS.

It already begins to look as if the Poli Players had come to stay. Messages of congratulatory nature have been showered upon the management since the opening, while the members of the company have been everywhere in the same manner. Most of the praise coming from persons who were previously unknown to the players, proving that they are singers and that they were prompted by more than ordinary circumstances. Many persons have even found points in which they claim the Poli Players excel the original production of The Lion and the Mouse as seen here when the play was first presented. Even allowing for unusual enthusiasm and prejudice in favor of the local organization, the fact remains that it takes an exceptional performance to induce such a comparison. The presentation of The Lion and the Mouse, taken as a whole, reflects great credit upon its producer, Mr. Harry Sedley, and gives the public an idea of what they can expect of future productions. It has been proven beyond the shadow of a question that the organization is capable of giving thorough productions of the best plays and that they will be staged and mounted in a complete and capable manner. The standard has been established, and the management is determined that it will not be lowered in the slightest degree. In fact, the constant aim will be to better it if possible.

One innovation that has been introduced already is what is termed in New York city "daylight pictures." By the new arrangement it is possible to present moving pictures between the acts, now being completely darkening the theater. Enough lights are kept burning throughout the picture to keep the house fairly well lighted and this adds greatly to the convenience of the patrons who may have come to move about from one part of the house to another. It is the intention of the management to arrange a night each week for the convenience of those who come from each of the surrounding towns when late cars will be run to carry those who attend the performance on the night back to their homes. Tickets will also be sold in each of the towns on the days set apart for them so that all will have an equal chance to secure the best seats.

BREED THEATER.

A picture of more than passing interest is the one entitled The Engineer's Secret, now being featured at the Breed theater, and displaying one of the best plots of the season. It is absolutely correct in every detail and shows life on the massive locomotives as it really is, with some exceptional scenes taken from the cab of the engine. It depicts an attempted train holdup in which the engineer's sweet-heart succeeds in thwarting the bandits and later captures the reader. The Boy Scouts of America is a splendid picture of this pleasing simple life for boys. The illustrated songs are most pleasing and include the latest and best, among which is the one entitled Take Me Back to Dixie, which with its duet chorus is a sure winner.

PUBLIC BENEFACTIONS.

Will of Hartford Man Provides Gifts to Orphan Asylum, Hospital and Old People's Home.

The will of the late Aaron W. C. Williams, recently admitted to probate at Hartford, some $20,000, of which the interest is to be paid quarterly to the Hartford orphan asylum, $50,000 similarly for the benefit of the Hartford hospital, and $50,000 for the Old People's home at that hospital. These are the public gifts.

The sum of $100,000 is left in trust for the benefit of his niece, Elizabeth Williams. Mrs. Norton receives $10,000. Various other relatives receive $4,000 each, and after other gifts are provided the rest goes to Dr. G. C. F. Williams of Hartford.

It is explained in the will that Mrs. Williams is already provided for and that the will is in accordance with an understanding between the two. The security company is trustee under the will.

NEW HAVEN'S RESERVOIR

So Low as to Cause Serious Concern—Low Guard Against All Possible Wastes.

The condition of the water supplies in New Haven is causing serious concern to the directors of the company. The condition of the reservoirs of the company, Bentley lake is entirely empty as is also Lake Champlain and Malley No. 2. The middle lake of the Malley system, Maltonall lake has not entirely filled up for two years and at the present time the level of the water is less than over the top of the intake pipe. The water company has not hitherto made any formal statement of the condition of their supplies, because they have hoped and expected that the fall rains would long overdue would replenish their reservoirs without the necessity of restricting their consumers. Other cities are in many respects worse off than New Haven, but the present level of the reservoirs indicates to every reasonable person the need of caution in the use of water and the addition of needless waste.

Extra inspectors have been hired to save all wasted water and everything is being done that the company can do to conserve the supply and to prevent inconvenience from any shortage of water.

In the extension of the water system, a large pipe has lately been laid from Cheshire south on Whitney avenue to Centerville and thence easterly to North Haven, and it is expected that the communities covered by this new main will be able to conserve water with the first of the year. The water comes from the reservoir in Prospect, Conn., built by the water company two years ago.

In connection with this extension the company is obliged to purchase the property and franchises of the Mount Carmel Water company. This was a small company formed to take care of a few people in Mount Carmel; the new system of the New Haven company is so superior both in quality and quantity that no reason remains for the Mount Carmel company's service and this will be abandoned after April, 1911.

POETRY.

THE CALL OF THE MINORA.

None are my legs that were once so young and gay. None in my whip, and my good old dog. None in my speed—to a minor league I have I have heard the gentle voices calling: "Come back, Joe!"

I'm coming! I'm coming! For my speed is growing slow. I hear the minor league calling: "Come back, Joe!"

Why do I weep, when my heart should feel so gay? Why do I sigh, when my appeal will never be heard? Griefing, I'm now departed long ago—

I hear the gentle voices calling: "Come back, Joe!"

I'm coming! I'm coming! For my speed is growing slow. I hear the minor league calling: "Come back, Joe!"

Where are the friends once so happy and so gay? Where are the friends who would cheer my every day? Gone from me, all, to some other star, I hear the gentle voices calling: "Come
